Wild Licorice. A bundle of licorice root-slim, rough deks of tobacco brown wood-lay on counter, and the sallor took one up and began to chew its end. "I have seen the place where this stuff grows wild," he said. "Do you know where that is?" "Can't say I do," replied the drug-

"It is along the banks," said the sailor, "of the Tigris and the Euphrates. The licorice is a wild plant in those parts. It stands three feet high, and its roots reach the water. For miles and miles the licorice patches spread. and the smell of them fills the air. It is a sweet, heavy smell.

"In those parts they cut the licorice plants regularly, and they use the poor, oked, imperfect sticks for firewood The good, clean, straight sticks they undle up-just like this bundle hereseme of the sticks go to druggists, to he sold cheap or given away, but most of them, nearly all of them, go to the snuff and tobacco manufacturers. What for? Why, to be used in adulter-I mean in flavoring tobacco and snuff."-Baltimore Herald.

To this the bereav-ed man replied by asking, as he gazed through tears into the minister's face, bat's ber name?"

"Mad as a Hatter."

What is the derivation of the phrase Mad as a hatter?" One explanation is that it was originally French, "As d as an oyster" (huitre), that bivalve eting supposed to be extremely unin-ellectual. Another theory is that the rase had reference to Collins, the glish poet, author of the "Ode to the Passions." He was a hatter at Chichester, and it has been said that the lunatics with whom he was coned at one time called him "the hat-" and that the phrase originated

The oldest Christian church in the world is at Rome. Not far from the great Church of St. Maria Maggiore, in a street bearing the same name, is the much smaller Church of St. Puentiana, which tradition as well as the opinion of archaeological experts declares to be the most ancient of the Christian edifices of Rome.

About the middle of the first century certain Roman senator named Pudens had a house on this spot. He was a Christian convert and, it is said, a distant relative of Paul, the apostle, who lodged with bim from A. D. 41 to 50 and converted his two daughters. Praxedes and Pudentiana. For the religious uses of himself and guests he built a small chapel in this house, and when he died in 96 and his wife a year later his daughter added a baptistery, the plans for which were drawn by Pius, the then bishop of Rome. In course of time a church was erected on the site of the original house of Pudens and consecrated by the bishop in 108 or 145.

The Rented Babies of Paris. The written law provides for every child in France that the government supplement the home education and when necessary replace it entirely, but as a matter of fact there are scores of children, in Paris especially, who have shaken free of their parents or been cast off by them and who live a vagabond existence, playing hide and seek with the officers of the law. Among this band the commonest offense is begging, though generally there is some older person back of the whining specimens one meets with on the streets. The fruitful incomes in this profession are obtained only through children. During the nights between New Year's and Christmas a baby in long clothes, especially if it be delicate looking, rents for as high as $5 or $6. His brothers and sisters from one to five years old bring $2, while those still older are worth a dollar on the coldest days.-Harper's Magazine.

In all my experiences and thoughts I am conscious of a hand. Whatever touches me, whatever thrills me, is as a hand that touches me in the dark. and that touch is my reality. You might as well say that a sight which makes you giad or a blow which brings the stinging tears to your eyes is unreal as to say that those impressions are unreal which I have accumulated by means of touch. The delicate tremble of a butterfly's wings in my hand, the soft petals of violets curling in the cool folds of their leaves or lifting sweetly out of the meadow grass, the clear, firm outline of face and limb, the smooth arch of a horse's neck and the velvety touch of his nose-all these and a thousant resultant combinations, which take shape in my mind, constitute my world.-Helen Keller in Century.

Dentists are, as a rule, not living testimonials to their profession. "It is because we know bow much a tooth can be burt that we dislike to get into a chair ourselves." one of the craft explained the other day. "I had to fill a tooth for a fellow dentist last week and found it simply impossible to do a bed my hand when he saw it coming his way and absolutely refused to let me do enough cutting to hold the filling solidly. Finally I patched the tooth up somehow, and he wouldn't let me polish off the edges. Give me the most hysterical woman before a dentist every time."-! w York Tribune.

Monocles In the English Army. About a century ago a British army order was issued forbidding officers to wear eyeglasses or spectacles. But a shortsighted officer belonging to a crack cavalry regiment had no mind to resign his commission or stumble blindly, and he invented the single eyeglass. When called to account by the authorities he claimed that the monocle, being of the singular number, did not contravene the order against spectacles and glasses in the plural. Red tape accepted this literal rendering of the law, and, becoming popular in the British army, the mouocie was adopted by civillan beaus.

HAD SALT RHEUM FOR FOUR YEARS

Began Like a Ringworm on Hand -Though Treated, Washing Irritated It and It Spread Over Arm and Face - Kept Growing Worse.

CURED TWO YEARS

"A little over six years ago I had a sore come on my hand. I consulted a doctor. He told me it was a ringworm. It kept on getting worse so I went to another doctor. He called it salt rheum. I kept on taking his treatment for some time but every washday my hand would break out and be worse. It continued to spread till it got over my whole hand and up my arm, also on my face. I suffered with the disease about four years when a friend of mine told me to try Cuticura. I got two cakes of Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura Cintment and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent. When I had used them up, I was cured and I haven't seen the least sign of the humor since. Mrs. Linda Winslow, Wyalusing, Penn, July 13, 1908."

FACE BADLY BRUISED And Cut by Fall. Now Healed without a Scar by Use of Cuticura.

"On January 31 I fell from a wagon, anding on my face and head against the curb and gutter. I was about the worst looking person that ever had a face. After about two hours' careful washing I got the blood stopped and the dirt off and my face pretty well covered with Cuticura Ointment. You may know that I was pretty well skinned up by the fact that both lips were cut inside and out and the skin on my nose and both cheek bones cut. Part of my face was healed over in a week and the scales came off and while the cheek is still sore there are no marks to prove that I was ever scratched. I would also say that I use the Cuticura Soap for shaving and my face is always soft. W. H. Dean, Newark, Del., February 24, 1908."
